COURSE DESCRIPTION:

*In addition to courses created by our writing team, we also use government publications for continuing education. While these courses are much more "textbooky" than our original works, we carefully choose publications that are information-dense and contain material that will be especially helpful to individuals seeking initial certification/licensure. After choosing the right publications, our writing team creates a user-friendly pretest/posttest and may attach additional insights to improve the learning experience. We have found that several organizations and government entities produce phenomenal publications that provide the knowledge (facts and figures) needed to pass state boards and keep skills sharp.

This National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) publication outlines the foundations of addiction treatment using a simple-to-read question-and-answer format. This publication includes information on the complexities of the disease of addiction, treatment principles, evidence-based approaches, and outcomes.

This course is applicable for professionals and practitioners of all levels. Course content applies to various client populations (i.e., addiction, mental health, etc.) and is relevant for services provided in a variety of settings (clinics, shelters, jails, etc.).
